About The NAP Lab

Dreaming about better sleep

The NAP Lab was founded with the mission to improve people's sleep.

We're a team of curious innovators who've set out to find answers, seek advice, and develop products that can make a difference!

Sleep + Science

We gather knowledge from experts around the world, in fields such as neuroscience, medicine and behavioral therapists.

Sleeping aids for one and all

But even more importantly: from our customers. It is by learning from customer feedback that we can keep developing new products that has a real impact for everybody who's tired of poor sleep.

02 About weighted blankets

NAP
LAB

A weighted blanket is just what it sounds like – an extra heavy blanket or duvet!

Weighted blankets have been prescribed through the healthcare system to people suffering from anxiety or hypersensitivities for many years.

Once they were introduced to the general market in Scandinavia, it turned out they improved the sleep quality for approximately 9 out of 10 people and were an immediate success.

The NAP Lab has developed weighted products to suit every need. The weighted duvet ensures a good night's sleep, and the knitted blanket is the perfect complement as it helps people unwind on the couch before going to bed.

Sleepy Sheepy is every child's perfect companion. Most children experience the calming effect of a weighted blanket even more strongly than adults, and with a weighted blanket in the shape of a cuddly animal it'll become every child's best friend during bedtime, travelling or even while doing schoolwork.

The NAP Lab believes that sleep as part of the conversation around overall wellbeing will grow tremendously over the coming years.

We strive to be the most innovative company in the sleep sector, and continuously develop new products that help people improve their sleep and their health.

Weighted duvets and blankets have become extremely popular in Scandinavia and we foresee a similar trend in other European markets over the coming years.

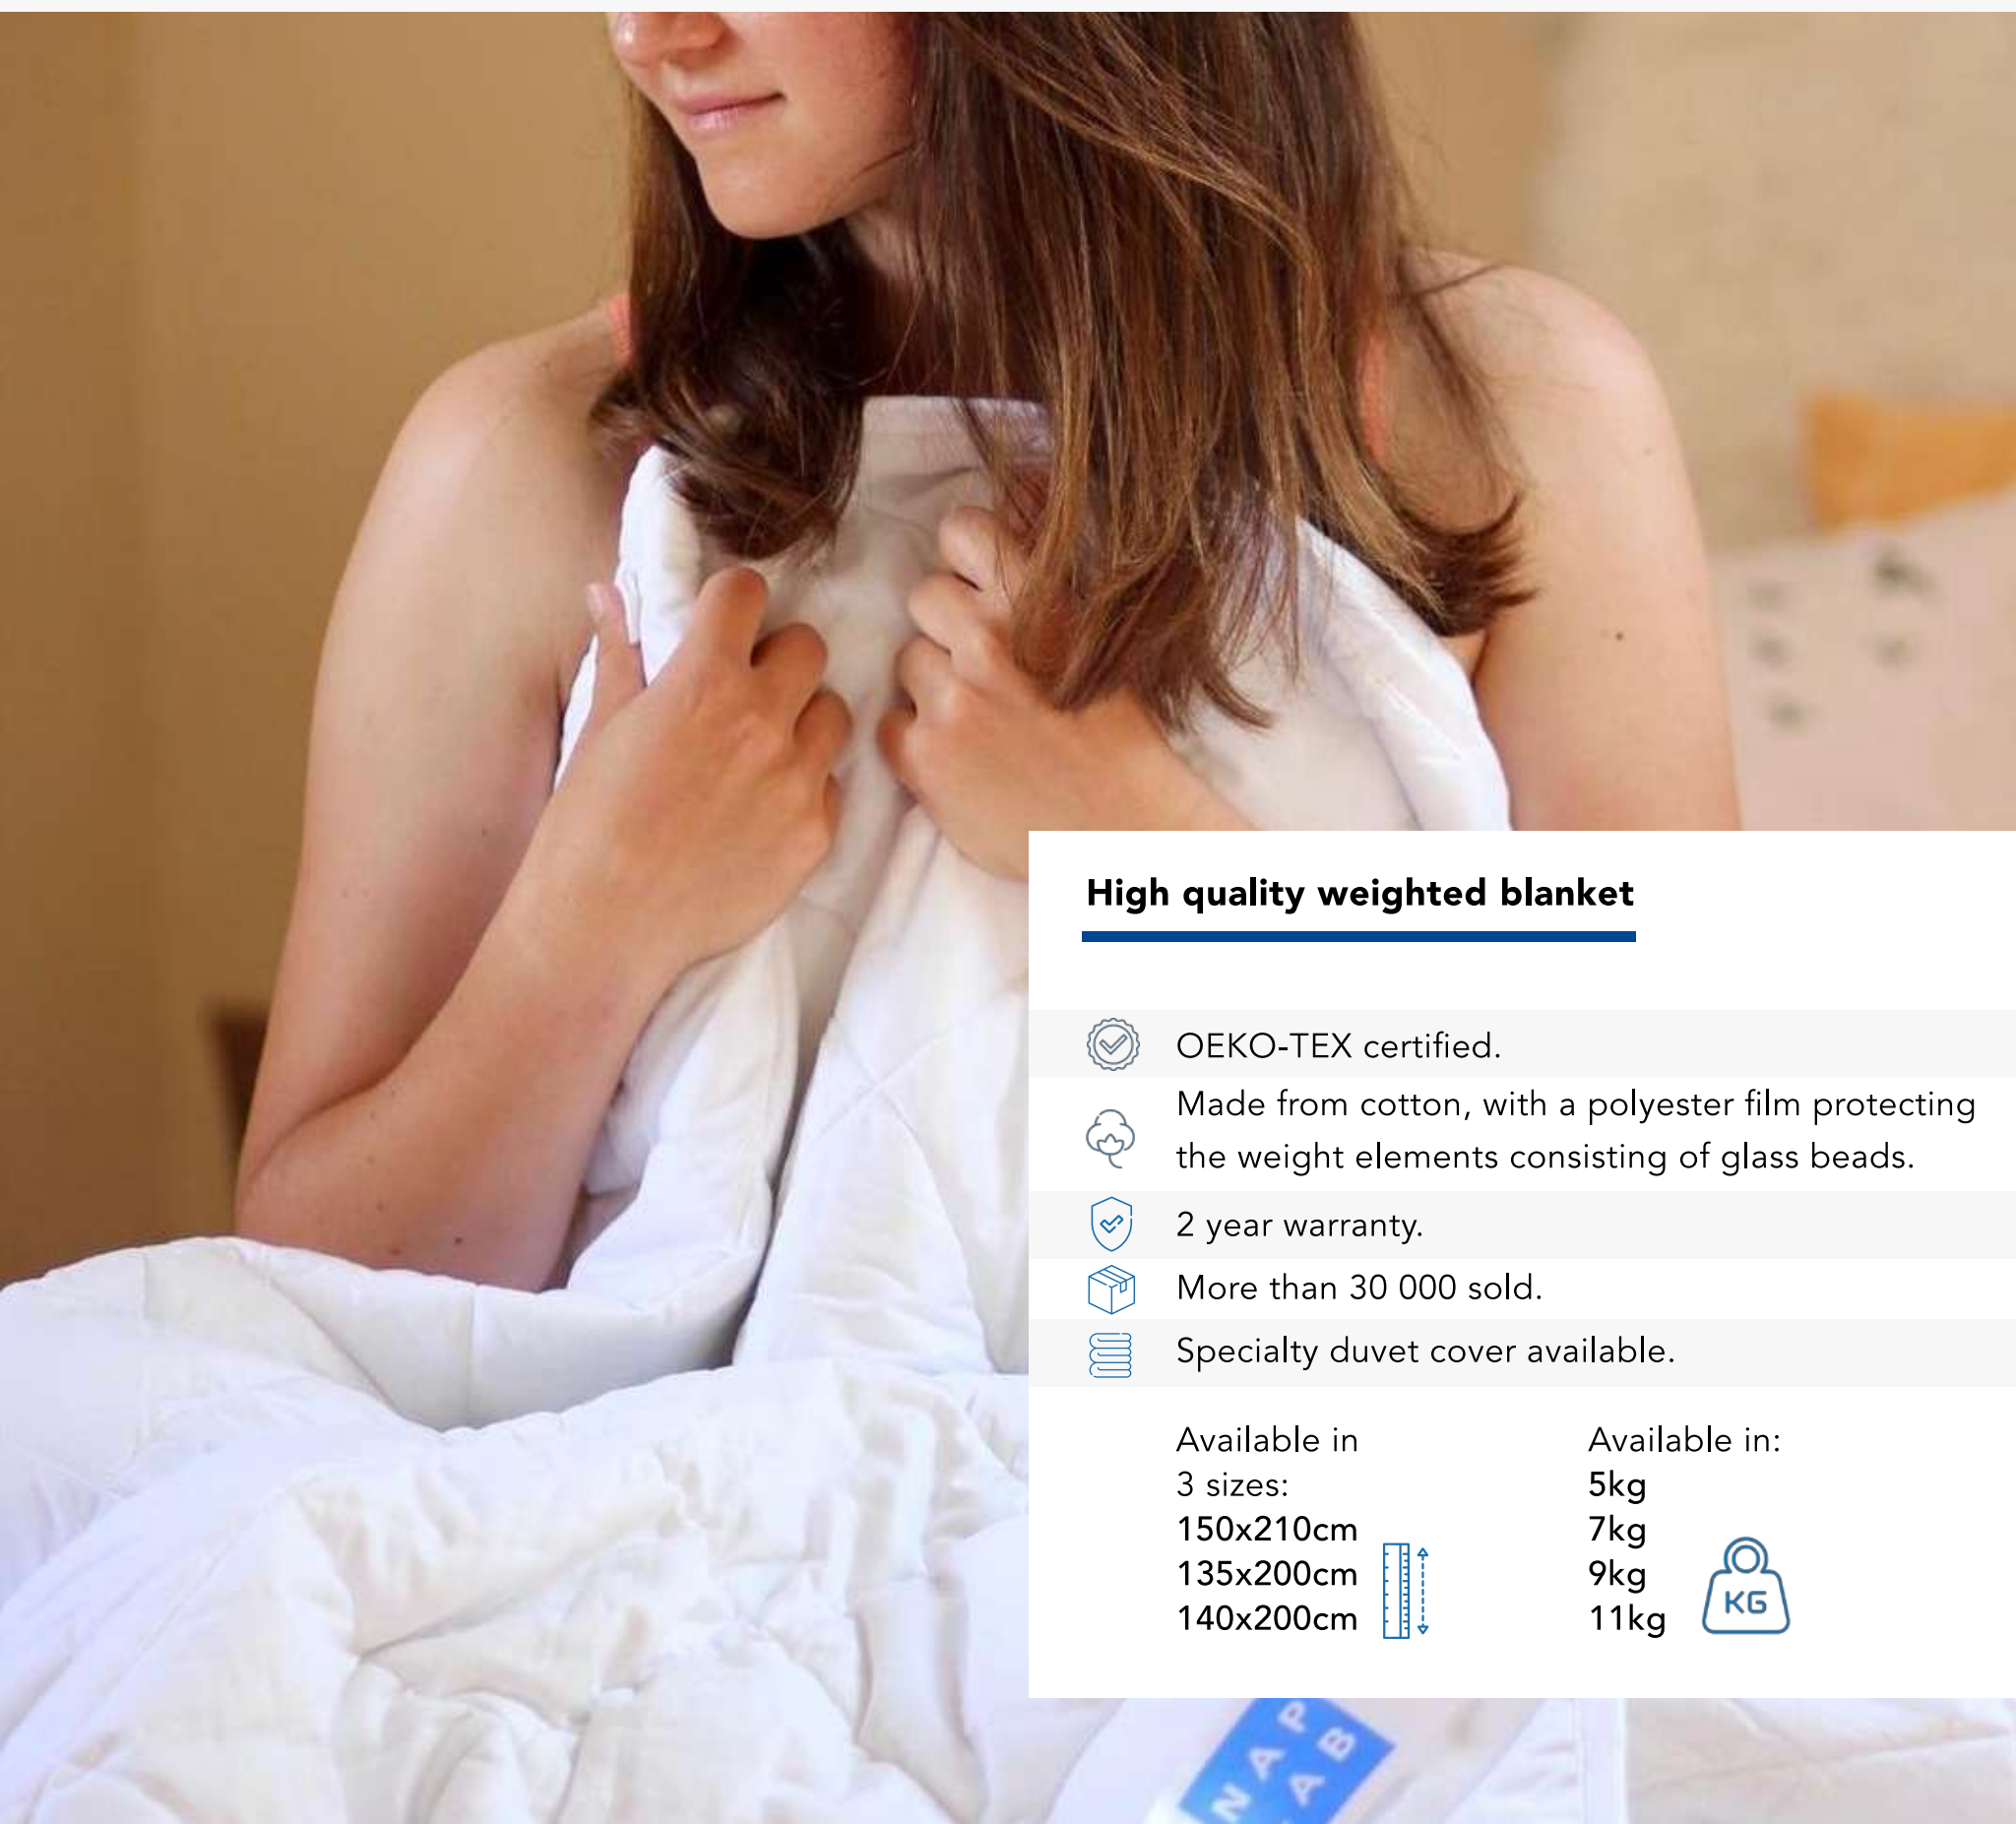

The NAP Lab wants to be a trusted partner to sleep experts across Europe and share our experience and knowledge to distribution partners that shares our values and wishes to help people improve their sleep
